

Libraries and Learning Services

University of Auckland Research Repository, ResearchSpace

Suggested Reference

Underwood, L., Atatoa Carr, P., Berry, S., Grant, C., & Morton, S. (2015). Who are Today's Dads? Poster session presented at the meeting of School of Population Health Research Showcase. Auckland, New Zealand.

Copyright

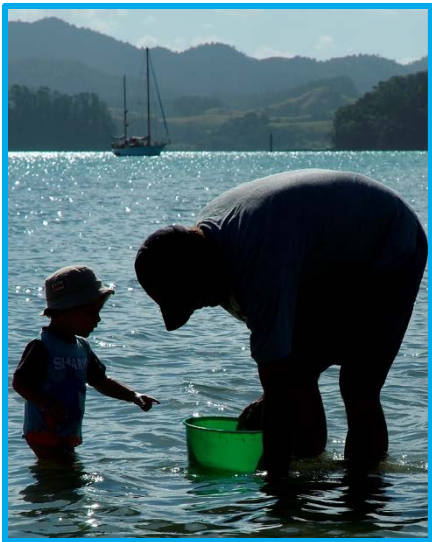

Items in ResearchSpace are protected by copyright, with all rights reserved, unless otherwise indicated. Previously published items are made available in accordance with the copyright policy of the publisher.

<https://researchspace.auckland.ac.nz/docs/uaa-docs/rights.htm>

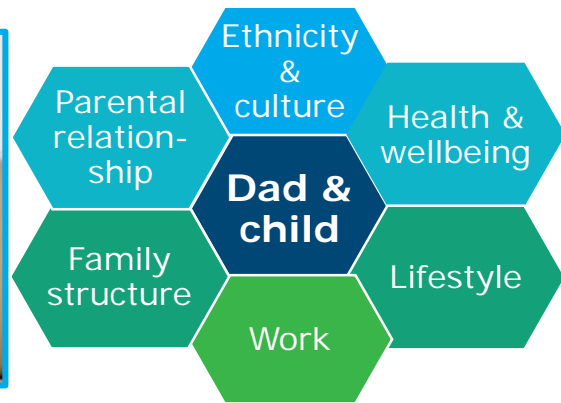

Who is your Daddy & what does he do?

Lisa Underwood, Polly Atatoa Carr, Sarah Berry, Cameron Grant, Susan Morton

Dads play a crucial role in the lives of children. We want to find out how they shape their children's early development, health & wellbeing.

The 'Dads' of over 5000 6 year olds have been invited to take part in an online questionnaire

We are interested in all 'Dads' not just those who are the biological fathers of their children but also step-Dads, foster/adoptive parents, co-mums & other family members who fulfill a Dad role.

'Who are Today's Dads?' is a Centre for Longitudinal Research project related to the Growing Up in New Zealand study

We will explore the diversity of individuals who are 'father' figures to contemporary NZ children with a focus on their work, parent-child relationship & how engaged Dads are with their Growing Up in New Zealand child.

Another important focus of the study is the extent to which NZ children experience changes in 'Dads'

Our aim is to determine how current & future policy can be developed to enhance the role that modern 'Dads' can play to contribute positively to children's early development.

Results available from Fathers Day/September 2016